Connection

At the heart of Cambridge and only minutes away from the train station

Road communications in Cambridge are excellent with the M11 providing a direct route to the M25 and London in the south, while the A14 links the city with the Midlands and the east coast ports. Rail links in Cambridge are strong with regular direct services from Cambridge Station to London Kings Cross 48 minutes and London Liverpool Street 1 hour 12 minutes. Cambridge also benefits from numerous bus routes connecting the various campuses, business parks and science parks with Cambridge Station and the City Centre.

Cambridge North Station, which opened in May 2017, is a major new £44m development that has vastly improved transport links to Cambridge Science Park, St Johns Innovation Centre and Cambridge Business Park. Cambridge is also well served by Stansted Airport, 20 miles to the south (via the M11) and Cambridge International Airport, 2 miles east of Cambridge town centre. Cambridge International Airport is now exclusively used by executive jets and light aircraft.
